

IAKS fee structure

Applicable as of 1st January 2024

With reference to Article 6, II. of the IAKS Rules, the following fee rates will apply to members as of 1st January 2024.

1. Annual membership fees

- A) Individuals pay an annual fee of 150.00 EUR
As of 1 January 2026, the annual fee for individual members will increase to 180.00 EUR
- B) Organizations, federations, or institutions under public or private law from the public sector, science and sport pay an annual fee of 420.00 EUR
- C) Organizations under private law from the commercial sector pay an annual fee of 560.00 EUR
- D) Organizations under private law which already have their primary membership (paragraph B or C) in one country, and which apply for one or more secondary membership(s) in other countries related to their global organization structure, pay a secondary or more membership fees equivalent to the fee of an individual member.
- F) Honorary members and Honorary Presidents are free of charge.
- G) Individual persons in retirement may be released from the membership fee by decision of the Executive Board.
- H) Full-time students are members free of charge. A certificate of matriculation shall be provided unsolicitedly until 15 January of each calendar year.

2. Members in countries with a section

The General Meeting empowers the Executive Board to charge different fees for members in countries with a section in consultation with the section's executive board.

3. Members in economically less developed countries

The IAKS sees itself as a global network for sports facility development, regardless of the economic conditions in the various countries of the world. Membership should also be available to those from economically less developed countries who are interested in membership.

Members in countries classified by the World Bank as "Low income", "Lower middle income", "Middle income" or "Upper middle income" countries may therefore pay only 50% of the fee rates mentioned in "1. Membership fees". The countries are as follows (status August 2023, World Bank):
